

The First 20 Years

We have become used to see photos of the Swedish King and Queen having a good time in Thailand. They have after all made Thailand their favourite Asian destination over the years, be it a private, semi-official or state visit. One such moment in history is their presence as guests of honour at the Thai-Swedish Business Association inaugural ball 1989. Our roads have crossed many times after that occasion and the chamber wishes to thank their majesties for their support over the years.

A less visible part of the chamber's activities are all those regular board meetings and the recurrent participation in various joint foreign chamber activities and duties, often with Thai counterparts present. These meetings often bring up important foreign business issues with Thai government officials and serve as a sort of lobbying platform.

Luncheon, dinner and breakfast events with interesting guest speakers have always been an important part of the chamber's service to its members. So too have the lighter functions, such as golf tournaments and after office get togethers.

Now, take a look at the photo cavalcade over the next few pages. You will recognize royals, old friends, visiting politicians, business people and hopefully recall what we did ten, twenty years ago. And maybe come up with new ideas what the chamber can do for you.

CHRISTER NILSSON

1992.

The chamber inaugurates a new office on Soi Phrompong. Birgitta Ludke is the executive director. President Anders Lundquist looks on together with Richard Hermansson from Tetra Pak as Lars Davidsson from Swedish Match shows a bottle of wine soon to be consumed in celebration.